Hints and Tips Unit 1

The information in this guide will be helpful to you when you are ready to complete your assessment for the following unit:

Unit 1 - Understand children and young people's mental health in context

Session 1 – Understand the concept of mental health

Q1. Provide a definition for each of the four terms listed in column A

You looked at the various terms relating to mental health in session 1 page 3. Using your learning from this, you need to provide a clear definition in your own words for each of the four terms listed in column A.

Q2. In the box below, Explain the relationship between mental health and well-being.

To help you answer this question use the course materials and your own research to explain how mental health and well-being are connected. when formulating your answer think about both the positive and negative aspects of this relationship. How can having poor mental health affect current life and life in the future? What is good mental health, and what impact does it have on the individual?

Q3. In the box below State the prevalence of mental health problems in children and young people.

When answering this question use the information provided in session 1 page 4 of the course materials as well as your own research to provide a range of statistics that show the prevalence of mental health problems in children and young people. You may find it useful to break down your findings into specific age groups. Try to provide as much detail as possible in your response.

Session 2 – Legislation and Guidance

Q1. In the table below state at least two key points of legislation related to each factor in the first column.

For this question you need to select the relevant legislation and then give two points from within that legislation that relate to the factors given in the first column. Don't just list the name of the legislation, pick out specific points in the legislation that relate to that factor.

Q2. In the box below, explain what is meant by the term “safeguarding” as applied to children and young people.

When formulating your answer for this question please ensure that you focus your response on what the term “safeguarding” means when specifically applied to children and young people.

Q3. In the table below, give examples of how legislation and guidance can be used to support children and young people with mental health concerns. You must provide a minimum of 2 examples.

For this question, although two examples are the minimum required, try and fully complete the table and provide three examples. You should use the course materials in session 2 page 1 for guidance with this but you could also carry out research and identify real life situations where legislation has been used to support children and young people.

Q4. In the table below, state how duty of care applies for children and young people in different settings:

- education
- care provision
- the criminal justice system.

For this question use your learning from session 2 page 3 and think about how the duty of care applies to children and young people in each of the settings listed in the first column.

Session 3 – Society's view of mental health

Q1. In the table below provide a definition for each of the terms listed.

You looked at the various terms relating to how society views people with mental health problems in session 3 page 1. Using your learning from this, you need to provide a clear definition in your own words for each of the four terms listed in column A.

Q2. In the box below, describe how social and cultural attitudes towards mental health have changed over time.

As well as looking at the changes over a longer timeline you could also consider how things have changed just in your own or your own or your parents lifetime. Has there been a dramatic change in the last 20, 30 or 40 years?

Q3. In the box below, describe how social and cultural attitudes can affect a child or young person's perception of their own mental health.

For this question you should use your learning from session 3 page 1 and consider the effects that social and cultural attitudes have on young people's perception of their own mental health. You should consider different ethnic or cultural groups and the way they perceive mental health problems and how they respond to those with mental health problems.

Q4. In the box below, describe how the media can influence attitudes towards mental health.

For this question think about the way that media reports issues relating to mental health. How does the way that it is portrayed influence attitudes? when formulating your response, consider both positive and negative influences that media can have.

Q5. In the box below, describe how discrimination can affect the mental health of children and young people.

For this question you should consider the impact that discrimination can have on children and young peoples mental health. Think about the effects in their personal development and the impact on their education and also how they react to discrimination.
