

vision2learn

Understanding Autism

Hints
and Tips

Unit 5

Contents

Session 1 – Understand behaviour within the context of autism	4
Session 2 – Know how to support positive behaviour	6
Session 3 – Understand the cognitive differences individuals with autism may have in processing information	7

Hints and Tips Unit 5

The information in this guide will be helpful to you when you are ready to complete your assessment for the following unit:

Unit 5 - Supporting positive behaviour in individuals with autism

Session 1 – Understand behaviour within the context of autism

Q1. In the box below, explain why an individual's behaviours may need to be considered within the context of autism. [1.1]

This is an explain question so you should provide a good level of detail in your answer. As well as using the course materials to help you formulate your answer the following website has some information that you may find helpful.

Understanding Behaviour

Q2. In the box below, explain how these behaviours may influence the way individuals with autism interact with others. [1.2]

Another explain question so a good level of detail required in your answer. The video on page 2 contains all the information that you will need to help you to formulate your answer but as with question 1 the following website contains information that you may find helpful.

Q3. In the box below, explain how the behaviour of others may impact on an individual with autism. [1.3]

Another explain question so a good level of detail required in your answer. For this question you need to consider how the different behaviours can impact on others. As well as the information in the course materials the link at the bottom of page 2 which contains a lot of useful information.

Q4. In the box below, explain why individuals with autism may find changes to their routine distressing. [1.4]

Another explain question so a good level of detail required in your answer. There is lots of information contained within the reveals and video on page 3 which will help you to formulate your answer. Think about each factor and then explain how this can cause distress to the individual with autism.

Q5. In the box below, outline strategies that can be used to support individuals to cope with changes to routine and structure.. [1.5]

For this question you simply need to outline the strategies that you learnt about on page 3. You may also find the following website useful.

all audiences \(autism.org.uk\)

Q6. In the box below, outline the approaches that can be used to reduce prompt dependency in individuals with autism. [1.6]

For this question you simply need to give an outline of the different approaches that you can use to reduce prompt dependency. Use the course information on page 4 of session 1 to help you formulate your answer. Try to provide a good range of different strategies in your response. You may also want to do further research on this and the following website has information that you may find useful.

How to Reduce Prompt Dependence - The Autism Helper

Q7. In the box below, outline strategies to support an individual's obsessions and special interests. [1.7]

Similar to question 6 you simply need to give an outline of different strategies that can be used for support. Try to provide as many as you can and make it clear how each strategy will help.

Session 2 – Know how to support positive behaviour

Q1. In the box below, outline how behaviour can be interpreted as a form of expression.. [2.1]

For this question think about how the individuals behaviour is used to communicate. What do the different types of behaviour suggest what they individual is trying to express?

Q2. In the table below, identify a range of factors that may be associated with behaviour that challenges. [2.2]

This is an identify question so you simply need to list a range of factors. You may want to go into more detail which is fine and helps to demonstrate your understanding more fully.

Q3. In the table below, outline the advantages and disadvantages of using strategies and reactive strategies to support positive behaviour in individuals with autism. [2.3]

There are a range of reactive and proactive strategies that can be used and you simply need to consider how they will be of benefit but also the potential risks that they may have.

Q4. In the box below, explain the importance of positive reinforcement. [2.4]

For this question you need to consider what positive reinforcement is and how it can be helpful when supporting individual with autism. You should provide good detail in your answer as this question is asking for an explanation.

Q5. In the table below, outline approaches that could be used to support positive behaviour. [2.5]

For this question you simply need to think about the different approaches that you be used for support and consider how they are useful.

Session 3 – Understand the cognitive differences individuals with autism may have in processing information

Q1. In the box below, explain how an individual with autism's behaviour can have an impact on them and others. [3.1]

This is an explain question so you need to provide good detail in your response. What you need to consider here is how the individual's behaviour affects themselves and those around them. Think about the feelings and thoughts that this can bring on.

Q2. In the table below, give examples of the following strategies that can be used in relation to behaviour that challenges:

- prevention
- de-escalation techniques
- coping strategies. [3.2]

For this question you should use the information on page 1 of session 3 to assist you. There are a number of strategies mentioned and you just need to give examples in your own words for each of the three different types asked for.

Q3. In the box below, describe ways to support an individual who is anxious and struggling to contain their own behaviour. [3.3]

This question is asking for a description so make sure that you provide good detail in your answer. Using the learning materials on page 2 of session 3 to assist you with this and consider the different ways that individuals who are anxious can be supported. Try to give as many different ways as you can. You may also want to carry out further research to assist you in formulating your response and the following website has some useful information that you may find interesting.

anxiety \(autism.org.uk\)

Q4. In the box below, describe how to support individuals to understand their behaviour in terms of:

- events and feelings leading up to it
- their actions
- the consequences of their behaviour. [3.4]

This question is asking for a description so make sure that you provide good detail in your answer. Think about the various ways that individual can be supported and encouraged to understand their behaviour in relation to the three factors listed.

Q5. In the box below, describe how family members can be supported to cope with behaviour that challenges. [3.5]

This question is asking for a description so make sure that you provide good detail in your answer. You should use the learning materials on page 3 of session 3 to assist you with this. Try and give as many different types as possible in your response.

Q6. In the box below, identify sources of support in relation to behaviours that challenge for the individual with autism and their family. [3.6]

For this question you simply need to list the sources of support that are available this can be support from individuals or organisation as well as specialist help. Try to give a good range of different sources in your response.